Scope of Present Duties:

Leader of AN & Associates LLC (AN&A), a newly established organization that is working towards worldwide effective nuclear security. AN&A works with government and non-governmental organizations; towards universal adherence of international legal instruments, for a common baseline approach to effective nuclear security and for the establishment of useful human resource development and technical support systems. AN & Associates is an international partner to the Fissile Material Working Group.

Most Relevant Past Experience:

Ms. Nilsson served as Director of the Office of Nuclear Security from its start in 2002 until April 2011. Under Ms. Nilsson's tenure, the IAEA nuclear security programme became one of the main operating programmes in support of international efforts for nuclear security; for exchange and sharing of information, the establishment of a comprehensive set of nuclear security guidance, for wide use of peer services, for the establishment of support centers and for human resource development as well as support for risk reduction measures, e.g. improved physical protection, better border controls and strengthened radiological security at major public events. From 1996 to 2002, Ms. Nilsson served as the Senior Coordinator in the IAEA Department of Safeguards, with responsibilities for the establishment of a sustainable information review system, building on the advancement of the safeguards system that resulted from the approval of the Additional Protocol to Safeguards Agreements in 1997. Before joining the IAEA, Ms. Nilsson held senior positions at the Swedish Nuclear Power Inspectorate.
