Scope of Present Duties:

Since August 2006, I have been working as Senior Nuclear Security Officer, at the IAEA's Division of Nuclear Security. The scope of my present duties includes among others, to coordinate and lead the development and implementation of the activities related to response to criminal acts or unauthorized acts involving nuclear and other radioactive materials, aimed at assisting Member States to combat nuclear terrorism.

Most Relevant Past Experience:

In December 1980, I joined the National Nuclear Energy Commission (CNEN) of Brazil, where I occupied among others, the following positions: Deputy Director of the Institute for Radiation Protection and Dosimetry (1995-1998) and National Coordinator for Emergency Preparedness and Response (1992-1998).

In February 1998, I joined the Division of Radiation and Waste Safety of the IAEA to serve as the Coordinator of Emergency Assistance Services (1998-2004). After that assignment, I occupied the following positions: Head of the Standards Application Unit (2004-2005) and Acting Head of the Incident and Emergency Centre (2005-2006).

I am author or co-author of about 60 scientific publications and more than 80 papers presented in national and international symposia and congresses.

Educational Background:

I have a bachelor's degree in physics (1977); a master's degree in nuclear engineering (1980); and a doctorate in biophysics (1994)
